

Student Alumni Profile

Andy Han
Accounts Receivable
C&Y Pacific

Andy is a Master of Commerce & Master of Logistics Management graduate from the University of Sydney.

Andy came to Performance English to study his Professional Year Accounting in March 2009.

He studied in the full time track and completed a 12 week full time internship at a major global airline based in their Sydney office.

During his program Andy redeveloped his resume with greater focus around practical skills and strengthened his Business English during his training and internship.

Following his internship Andy's manager assisted him with industry contacts and Andy secured a permanent part time accounts receivable role with C&Y Pacific, an import company based North Sydney. This is a part time role. Andy's plan is to get a start in his qualified area, strengthen his resume and build his practical experience in accounting and then move forward with his career plan from that point. With this attitude we expect him to succeed.

Student Commentary

"My new role is as a part time accounts receivable officer in a small import company which is located in North Sydney. It is only two days a week, but I think it is a good start for me.

My internship was a wonderful experience to work in a major global airline. Even though I had some complaints at the beginning, my supervisor gave me lots of help. He supported me to go for the interview and gave me lots of ideas which were very helpful.

During the internship, I found that I still needed to learn more Business English to fit me into an Australian company. I can not wait for our night class."
